In Memoriam

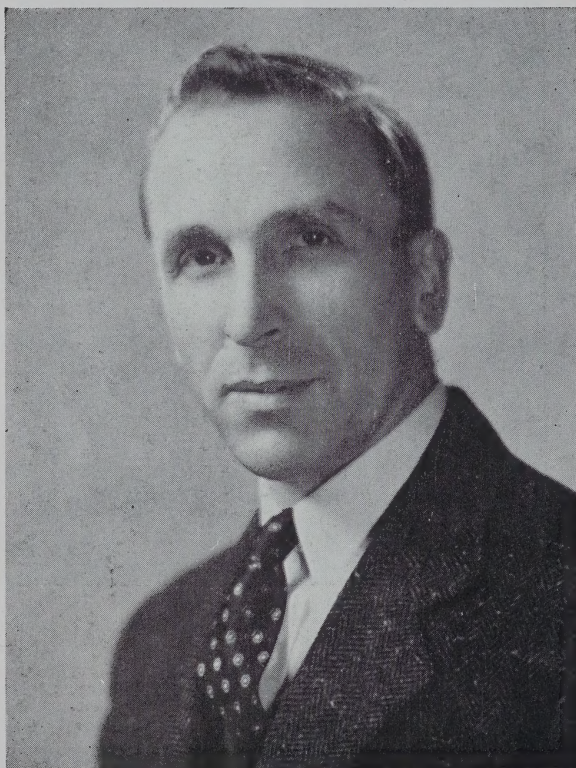

The faculty and students of Pinkerton Academy were deeply grieved by the sudden death of Marion Dexter Winchester on August 5, 1951. In her years of service to the Academy, she not only creditably filled her position as head of the Home Economics Department, but also took an active interest in the student activities. She will be long remembered by all of us.

Dedication

To express our sincere appreciation for the guidance, understanding, and friendliness which you have always shown us, we, the Class of 1952, dedicate this Commencement issue of the Pinkerton Critic to you,

PETER ARTHUR CURRAN

IVAH A. HACKLER

RICHARD SPAULDING

Class History

We Seniors have had four wonderful years at Pinkerton. Each year has brought new memories and many new treasured souvenirs.

It doesn't take very much to remind us of our Freshman year. Everything seemed so different and we felt just a little lost. Just as we discovered what we were supposed to do and became acclimated, the traditional "Initiation Day" arrived. This was our day to hang our heads in shame and avoid upperclassmen for we were odd-looking creatures. The girls were very beautiful in wrong-side out and upside down skirts. From light brown grain bags down to our aching feet, we were hideous, tired, and very unhappy. The boys made adorable little babies with their diapers, bottles, and rattles. When the day was over, the boys had washed the walks with their worn tooth-brushes, the Seniors had the shiniest shoes in town, and we had decided that we were the saddest people alive, but at last we were a part of Pinkerton.

Everyone saved a pink and blue bonnet from the Freshman Reception. After initiation, we were very happy to attend the first dance given especially for us. We met the Trustees and the Faculty and knew that we belonged in the school. Baby Bobby Manning will probably never forget his trip around the Chapel in his carriage.

Soon we held the first of our many class meetings. With the help of our class advisers, Miss Young and Coach Curran, we chose a class cheer:

'Tis our honor to uphold
Our class colors, green and gold.
We'll be loyal, we'll be true,
To P. A. and '52.
'52 '52 '52

Among our souvenirs are little green and gold bows that were each person's own banner. Our big class banner was finally made and hung in the Chapel, showing the world that the Class of '52 was on its way.

Soon after Christmas we started to think about our class officers. It wasn't very difficult to choose the right ones. Richard Spaulding was elected President and Jean Clark, Vice-President. Ann Tsetsilas was Secretary, while Robert Rand guarded our money as Treasurer. Janice Rand and Arnold Buckley were on the Student Council.

Surely everyone has a program from that first big formal dance, the Junior Prom. The year was half over and we really enjoyed the fun.

Time went fast and soon spring exams were upon us. Then our first Class Day was over and we had completed our first year at Pinkerton.

While looking through the souvenirs of our Sophomore year, we find a piece of the costume worn to the Halloween Party that our class sponsored. Four of our classmates captured prizes there. Paul Pillsbury as the Man from Mars had the most original costume. Sylvia West, Lorraine Quimby and Dorothy Parkinson were the funniest as the Toni Twins and the Toni box.

Look here, this is a picture of us taken that year. Right in the center are our class advisers, Miss McIntyre and Coach McKernan. On both sides of them are the class officers: Dick Spaulding, President; Jean Clark, Vice-President; Pat Hayes, Secretary; Bob Rand, Treasurer; Student Council Representatives, Joanne Preston and Arnold Buckley.

We can still remember when we initiated the new Freshmen. The boys wore diapers and the girls had to clean the shoes of the upperclassmen. They were something to see.

After an enjoyable and profitable summer for most of us, we returned to Pinkerton for the first time as upperclassmen. We had completed two full years at P. A. and we returned with older and wiser interpretations of Pinkerton traditions. We realized we had a busy year ahead of us and we lost no time getting started.

Our earliest memory of this year is meeting in our new home-room with Mr. Rohanick as class adviser. Because of the large number in our class we had to be separated; many of the girls descended to Room 9.

The most important event at this time was the election of class officers. We seemed to have been quite satisfied and as we look at our class pictures, we find that once again we selected the following to be our leaders: President, Dick Spaulding; Vice-President, Jean Clark; Secretary, Pat Hayes; Treasurer, Bob Rand; Student Council Members, Jean Graves, Arnold Buckley.

Our second class meeting was called for the purpose of choosing class rings. What a bevy of excitement there was when we viewed the samples we had to choose from! But finally, with the help of Mr. Rohanick and a ring committee, we chose and sent for the favored style. When we look at our rings, we can't help but remember how thrilled we were when they finally arrived only a week before our Christmas vacation.

Before we knew it, the middle of February was upon us. This meant only one thing — the Junior Prom! This was to be our own Prom and we meant to make it the best one ever. As far as we were concerned, it was and I'm sure everyone enjoyed himself. Can't you picture the Chapel decorated in the pastel shades of the Rainbow? Johnny Gillespie's orchestra set just the right atmosphere.

It seems that everything happened at once after the Junior Prom. Miss Abbott set the date for our 1,200 word essays and at the same time, the Junior play must be thought of and tryouts for Declamation.

A committee of four persons, two girls and two boys, chose for our presentation, "Men Are Like Streetcars." After much anticipation on our part the following cast was chosen for the Junior play; Jean Graves, Janice Rand, Carol Hodgdon, Jane Barker, Dorothy Parkinson, Sylvia West, Eleanor Watt, Genevieve Stannard, Lorraine Goyette, Joann Dougan, Paul Pillsbury, Wally Mack, Robert Rand, Blair Frost, and John McGowan.

Thanks to the untiring efforts of Miss Abbott, the play cast itself and the several committees, the play was a rollicking success.

The tryouts for the Declamation Contest were the most worrisome events of our school year. This was the first time that many of us had ever spoken before large groups of people and by looking at our faces it was no concealed fact. We stood on the stage while our knees shook and our voices quivered. The remaining members of the class were the judges and we finally selected the best speakers. They certainly did our class justice at the Declamation finals in June. The winners were: first prize—John McGowan, second prize—Lorraine Goyette, and third prize Paul Pillsbury.

This event ended our Junior year at P. A. but work was still to be done. It is traditional at Pinkerton for the Juniors to be responsible for all equipment used at Graduation exercises and for the Junior Girls to act as ushers.

It certainly is a lot of fun to look through our souvenirs, all of which bring back precious memories of the Academy. The senior year, to our way of thinking, was the most exciting and nostalgic.

I see that someone has found the box marked "Souvenirs of the Senior Year." Good! Let's look through it and relive a few of the many thrilling events.

Placed on top of everything in the box is a small photograph of the class officers, the same as last year, sitting with Mr. Conner, our class adviser, under a shady tree on the side lawn, discussing plans for the Annual Senior Corn Roast. Here's a piece of corn silk, some of which we all wore the day following the corn roast. We surely had a grand time, didn't we? Remember the ride from school over to Buckley's Camp at Angle Pond where the corn roast was held? Upon arrival some brave souls even went in swimming, while others enjoyed the water from a perspective point of view. Everyone enjoyed himself to the hilt while stashing away golden yellow corn, potato chips, frankfurters, and Mr. Conner's apples.

It was about this time of year that the Senior Class planned the Freshman Reception. Johnny Gillespie furnished the music and refreshments were served. It was the first big social event of the year, and all enjoyed themselves including the Freshmen with their blue and pink bonnets.

Hmmm, what's this? Oh, yes, a ticket to the Senior Play. The committee chose, The Little Dog Laughed, a new comedy just off the press. The cast oddly enough seems to be the same as last year. The cast will long remember the fun of rehearsals and the director's remarks, such as: "Aren't we comical?" — "Don't overplay, but underplay for comedy" — "Wake up to yourselves and pronounce the 'ing' part of the word!" Nevertheless, without those statements, I'm positive that our play wouldn't have been the great success it was.

Right around this time our long awaited class pictures arrived. Remember how excited we all were? Some were disappointed and some were pleased with the results, but all were highly excited. The great task of exchanging pictures then was on our shoulders. Most assignments were forgotten that night, in favor of writing our autograph and best wishes on the folders.

Our annual Christmas program came next, and here is a mimeographed copy of the beautifully written story, When the Chimes Rang, which was narrated by John McGowan. With the entire class interested and participating in the choir or with scenery, or in the actual production itself, our program was most impressive.

Say, look! Here's a ballot we used at our town meeting. What fun that was!

Robert Rand, the moderator, conducted the meeting while we argued and voted on the articles of the Warrant. Surprisingly enough, the voting of the class fairly well corresponded with the voting of the townsfolk.

Around the last of April, we began planning for the Senior Prom. This was to be our last formal dance at Pinkerton. The decoration committee decorated in such a fashion as to depict the gayety and freshness of the Spring season. It was truly a gala event with many from every class attending.

As soon as our Prom was over, it seemed as though June just walked in. All of us realized then that our days at Pinkerton were limited.

Our last big fling was the Senior Howl. Everyone climbed into cars and went off for one afternoon of pure enjoyment.

All fun was halted for awhile during which everyone studied and restudied material for final exams. No casualties were reported, however.

Let's take the elastic from around these rolled-up papers. What are they? Why, they're the Baccalaureate program, the Class Day Program and the Graduation Day Program. Who could forget those occasions, especially graduation? How very proud we were when we were handed our diplomas. However, there was a twinge of sadness in the hearts of us all when we realized that four of the happiest years of our lives had come to an end.

Class Athletics

In the fall of 1948, the Class of 1952 started its first year at Pinkerton. Some of the boys were anxious to show their ability in football. These boys were Arnold Buckley, Robert Boyle, Cookie Jodoin and Bill Lannon.

The season progressed rapidly and it was soon time for the annual Freshman-Sophomore football game. The Sophomores won by the one sided score of 14-0.

There was no one fortunate enough to make the basketball squad although many of the boys tried very hard.

The boys gained much experience playing interclass basketball, but they had a hard time winning.

Our Sophomore year the boys showed a great deal of ability with Eugene Matteuzzi and Frank Jodoin both receiving letters in football. Also on the squad were Arnold Buckley, Robert Boyle, Richard Spaulding, Frank Johnson, Bill Lannon and Dick Quimby.

The basketball season found Buffy Harris making the varsity. Other Sophomores on the team were Arnold Buckley, Frank Jodoin, and Dick Spaulding.

The interclass basketball team came in third that year with Arnold Buckley as captain.

Jerry Goodchild and Buffy Harris again made the baseball team and succeeded in making their letters.

As Juniors, Frank Jodoin, Arnold Buckley, Robert Boyle and Buffy Harris made their letters for their ability in football. Also showing a great deal of ability was Dick Spaulding. Eugene Matteuzzi, who was a promising potential threat, broke his leg in the first game and was hospitalized for the rest of the season.

As winter neared the boys moved to the basketball court. Buffy Harris made his letter while Arnold Buckley and Frank Jodoin played varsity and Clyde Davis and Frank Jodoin made the Junior Varsity.

The interclass team didn't have a very successful season, but the boys were out there fighting.

It was not long before the baseball season rolled around again with only two boys from the class of '52 making the team. Jerry Goodchild and Buffy Harris both received their letters.

There was a good turn out for the football team last year with Co-captains Frank Jodoin and Eugene Matteuzzi, Arnold Buckley, Robert Boyle, Dick Spaulding, Dick Quimby, Clyde Davis, and Buffy Harris all making Varsity and receiving their letters.

The boys' interclass team won all their games except two. They came in second under the captainship of Dick Quimby.

The spring season found Jerry Goodchild, Dick Quimby and Buffy Harris making their letters in baseball.

We, the boys of the class of 1952, wish to thank Mr. Hackler, Coach McKernan, Coach Curran, Coach Levandowski, and Mr. Rohanick who have helped to make us better athletes during our stay at Pinkerton.

CLARENCE HARRIS, JR.

Although field hockey was a new game to us our Freshman year, we tied the Sophomores for second place. Carol Hodgdon was captain and Jean Clark, manager.

Basketball was next. Ernestine Kachavos was elected captain, and Joyce Monkley, manager. The team won first place and the Interclass Basketball Cup. We were proud to have the following five girls on the sub-varsity our Freshman year: Joann Dougan, Ernestine Kachavos, Ruth Bunker, Charlotte Noddin, and Carol Hodgdon.

In the spring, volleyball and softball were the sports played by the girls. During our four years we have had an exceptionally good record in these two sports.

The field hockey season our sophomore year was very successful, and we placed first. Charlotte Noddin was captain and Joyce Monkley, manager.

With the hockey season over basketball started. Jean Clark was elected captain, and Marian Hall, manager. The girls came in second. Ernestine Kachavos, Charlotte Noddin, and Carol Hodgdon were now playing varsity. Jean Clark was on the sub-varsity.

In our Junior year we again placed first in field hockey, and again Charlotte Noddin was captain. Jane Barker was elected manager.

The girls did well in basketball and came in second. Monique Rousseau was captain, and Virginia Hutton, manager. Margaret Stewart and Carol Hodgdon played on the varsity. Ernestine Kachavos made the sub-varsity, and Jane Barker was the assistant manager. The varsity was undefeated our Junior year and the team was given a banquet and engraved gold basketballs.

When our Senior year rolled around, the girls were really veterans at field hockey and we won the Hockey Cup for the third consecutive year, a very unusual feat. Maxine Lessard was captain, and Frances Lucien, manager.

This was a year for glory because the Senior girls also won the Interclass Basketball Cup for the first time since we were Freshmen. Jean Clark was captain, and Frances Lucien, manager. There were three Seniors on the varsity: Joann Dougan, Joanne Cournoyer, and Captain Carol Hodgdon. Jean Clark was on the sub-varsity, and Jane Barker, manager.

Freshman Year: Lorraine Goyette, Joann Dougan

Sophomore Year: Lorraine Goyette, Joann Dougan

Junior Year: Barbara Holden, Joyce Monkley

Barbara Holden was head cheerleader our Senior year.

Class Statistics

Oh, Pinkerton, we're leaving you
 This Graduation Day
 And we, the Class of '52
 Have these few words to say:

 The Class consists of 72
 Each one would surely say
 The times we've had at Pinkerton
 Would cover many a day.
 Our total weight is four and a half tons
 That's really quite a bit.
 Eleven hundred, seventy-eight feet, our height
 Is also a lot, you'll admit.
 Our age is twelve hundred and eleven years
 We're certainly old enough to start our careers.
 Our many eyes are really keen —
 27 brown, 27 blue, 13 hazel, and 2 green.
 For variety in hair we have no lack —
 53 brown, 11 blonde, 2 red and 3 black.
 Six religions comprise our list
 25 are Catholic and 9 are Methodist,
 Episcopalians 5, Presbyterian 2
 But wait, we have some more for you

Baptists are 12 to which we add 4
That makes 16 Congregationalist to end the score.
Stanley Laferriere is our tallest boy by far
He has trouble getting into his little car.
Carol Hodgdon's our tallest gal
To everyone she is a pal.
Lucien Paquin's our shortest male
He's always quiet without fail.
Arlene Putney is our shortest miss
We had some trouble deciding this.
Mary Ann Pellerin never makes a sound
In fact, we never know when she's around.
Henry Wallace is our quietest boy
And Nancy Gray's humor brings all of us joy.
The Frost twins are the best dressed by far.
We all agreed Jean Graves is our star
Jeanie is also the most popular gal.
Dick Spaulding's the most popular boy; he's quite a pal.
Our best looking boy we found to be Randy
We also found that with the jokes he's quite handy.
Buffy Harris is our best boy athlete
We'll agree in any sport he's really reet.
Paul Pillsbury is most likely to succeed.
'Cause he's got what it takes, and that's what you need.
Lillian Ratay is the flirt of the class.
Janice Rand is our prettiest lass.
Barbara Holden is our best dressed girl
The clothes she wears are out of this world.
Carol Hodgdon is our best girl athlete.
Miss Abbott is the teacher that can't be beat.
Our favorite subject is English, we all agree.
Our actor, John McGowan, we chose with glee.
Joanne Cournoyer and Bob Manning are our dancing pair
To see them together is quite an affair.
Our favorite food is steak, good and thick
For that, it wasn't hard to pick.
It didn't take us long to think
That Coca Cola is our favorite drink.
Our favorite actress is Jane Wyman and actor John Wayne
Our preference to this couple should be very plain.
Tell Me Why is the best song for us.
The movie, An American in Paris, we chose without fuss.
Gone With The Wind is our favorite book
Through these pages we all love to look.
These are the statistics of our Senior year
Of which, many memories will be held dear.

'Tis our honor to uphold
Our class colors, green and gold
We'll be loyal
We'll be true
To P. A. and '52

Class Gifts

Frances Baker: In psychology the boys were always taking your books and teasing you. A book on Jujitsu should help you to protect yourself.

Jane Barker: Jane, you've spent many hours as the girls' counselor on Love. This book, Advice to the Love Lorn, should be of value.

Jean-Marie Benson: If you ever lose your license while speeding from Windham to Derry, Jean, we have a duplicate for you.

Marilyn Bentley: Marilyn, because you can't say, "I do," until you're 25, we give you this clock to watch the time go by.

Leon Bertrand: Leon, we hear that you are planning to take over your father's T. V. business. A ladder should help you to put up the antennae.

Alice Bourassa: Alice, thanks for pulling us through the Field Hockey season. Here's some liniment for your bruises.

Robert Boyle: Bob, so that you will always remember your days as Vice-Principal of Pinkerton, we give you the hook that you always used to hang your coat on in the office.

Louise Caldwell: Squeaky, we know you're interested in the Navy. A pamphlet on Navy life should prove interesting.

Donald Chase: Donnie, we don't want you to graduate feeling that you're a failure in the chicken business; here's an egg.

Jean Clark: Jeanie, you are always writing letters. These air mail stamps should be useful.

Joanne Cournoyer: Jo, here's a sign to hang on your door when you and your sister start that dancing team.

Norman Cousins: Norman, we wouldn't want you to forget your old home state. You'll enjoy an issue of Vermont Life.

Barbara Davis: Take this plane, Barb; now you can start for Maine any time you like.

Clyde Davis: Clyde, these bobby-pins will come in handy until you get that whiffle.

Ronald Davis: You must get your various addresses confused, Spider; an address book may help.

Ruth Dean: Ruthie, a pair of boxing gloves for you; now you can defend yourself from your friends.

Blair Frost: Blair, we never could hear your arguments in class. A megaphone should remedy the situation.

Gordon Frost: Gordon, a paint brush for you. There's a rumor that you plan to be a Commercial artist.

Agnes Gates: Agnes, as you had such a good attendance record, starting June 13th, 1952, we give you a long vacation. Some travel folders will help you solve your problem.

Alfred Gill: A cow may remind you of the many hours that you spent at the farm.

Gerald Goodchild: A pair of earmuffs should remind you of the cold days that you used to walk to school.

Joan Goggin: Joan, with Nancy around life must be one continuous joke. Study this jokebook and we hope that you will turn the tables on Nance.

Jean Graves: Gravsie, you always seemed to enjoy yourself in everything you did at Pinkerton. This diary is to keep a record of your good times.

Nancy Gray: Nan, we certainly wouldn't want you to run out of jokes. This little book will give you a new supply.

Ruth Greeley: Ruthie, because you are always bragging about Londonderry, this history may give you some new information.

Marian Hall: Marian, we've noticed that you've been making collection of Loys' sweaters. Use this yarn to make one of your own.

Clarence Harris: Buffy, you were elected our class athlete; a box of Wheaties will keep you in shape.

Margaret Hayes: Pat, a Hot-Rod manual should help you keep up with Bob Taylor.

Catherine Healey: Room D was always too crowded for you to study in, Kay. Take this deed to some private property.

Carol Hodgdon: Carol, we've noticed your fondness for small cars. This wrench might come in handy if you should ever have to repair it.

Barbara Holden: As your only interest is in New York, we thought you might enjoy this map of its Military Bases.

Virginia Hutton: Ginny, as you have furnished us with so many Toll House cookies, we would like you to have this one in return.

Frank Jodoin: Cookie, if you should ever run out of insults, this book on How to Win Friends and Influence People may be of some value to you.

Frank Johnson: We realize, Frank, sometimes it must be difficult for you to get to school on time. This pass entitles you to be five minutes late every morning.

Ernestine Kachavos: Ketch, as we know you're planning to be a Bacteriologist, this microscope should be of some help to you.

Monica-Jean Keith: Monica, because we know of your fondness for art, a paint brush should start you on your career.

Stanley Laferriere: Stan, the class wants to give you a new car. Now you won't have to hope and pray whenever you go to Lawrence.

Maxine Lessard: Max, a shovel for you so you won't forget the art of clam digging.

Frances Lucien: Tuny, use this notebook to record all the insulting remarks you want to tell Buckley and Cookie.

Virginia Lumley: Virginia, you were always complaining about the rough Chester roads ruining your car; this roller will help you to repair them yourself.

Wallace Mack: Wally, if life gets boring in Londonderry, a book on the mysteries of women should prove interesting.

Jean Magee: Jeannie, we want you to have this make-up slip to remind you of the days when it was your turn to skip school.

Robert Manning: Bob, as you are our best boy dancer, we want to give you this floor wax to enable you to keep your dancing smooth.

Phillip Marcotte: Phil, portable number plates should be useful as you change cars so often.

Martha Martin: Marth, we understand you have a passion for shoes. This pair makes thirty-one, doesn't it?

Joyce Monkley: Joycia, you really took some beatings in Room D. We thought you could use these Band-aids.

Robert Nelson: Bob, take this car jack in case your car needs repairs while traveling from school to work.

Lucien Paquin: Lucien, all your high school years have made you and McGowan the best of friends. To help you remember him, in case your future roads don't meet, we have a picture for you.

Dorothy Parkinson: Dottie, we know that you have trouble with traffic lights turning red. This one stays green all the time.

Mary Anne Pellerin: Mary, you're our quietest girl. Some bells to put on your shoes should let us know when you're coming.

Arlene Peterson: A book on costumes might help you with the Baker-Peterson Originals.

Paul Pillsbury: Paul, as we wouldn't want you to graduate with your education being neglected, we thought you would enjoy this funny book.

Henry Poisson: Henry, we'll always remember your raving about your newest litter of pigs, now you will always have a baby pig around.

Joanne Preston: This bag of sugar is to repay you, Jo, for all you've used in making fudge for the Senior Girls.

Arlene Putney: Arlene, you are our shortest girl; we thought this stool would be some use to you.

Dick Quimby: Dick, here's a notebook to write down the jokes that you learn in history.

Janice Rand: Janice, you're our most talented seamstress; a needle and thread may be useful.

Lillian Ratay: This trophy will help you remember you were chosen our class flirt.

Monique Rousseau: Monique, you have natural blond hair, but in case someone should try to rob you of it, take an extra bottle of peroxide.

Dick Spaulding: Dick, life must be dull to you because you are always sleeping in classes; this noise maker may liven things up.

Genevieve Stannard: We realize that it's difficult for you to see very high. A piece of paper to stand on may be of help, Gen.

Paul Van Scoten: We don't want you to forget your trip to Chicago. We have a ticket so that you can return someday.

Henry Wallace: Henry, you're our most bashful boy; this magnet will help draw the girls to you.

Eleanor Watt: To remind you of your days in the office, Eleanor, take this pad of carbons.

Sylvia West: In case you should ever get lost, here's a compass to help you find your way back to your beloved Chester.

Class Prophecy

TIME: 1970

Scene: 529 Park Avenue, New York City, New York. Offices of Barker Jet Airlines Inc.

Joanne: I think it's a wonderful idea to go on a safari to Africa instead of having a Class Reunion here in New York.

Robert: While we're there we can visit Blair Frost and Eleanor Watt who are missionaries in the Belgian Congo.

Frank: Would you be willing to have some of your company's airplanes take us, Jane?

Jane: Oh, I'm sorry, but only one of our planes will be available on that day. We could contact Maxine Lessard. I've heard that she is running an air-taxi service.

Joanne: Now that transportation is settled, let's work on the invitations.

Frank: What's Wally Mack's address?

Robert: He won't be able to come; he's building bridges in Brazil. Eugene Matteuzzi is taking weather readings in Antarctica. He surely won't make it.

Jane: I heard from Jean Graves and she is getting a leave of absence as star in "North Pacific" just to come with us.

Frank: This trip won't be anything new for Arlene Putney. She has just returned from a successful expedition to Asia where she was collecting dinosaur eggs.

Joanne: Did you read in the paper that Buffy Harris has just been elected Captain of the Rider Cup Golf Team?

- Robert: Our classmates have done all right in the sports world. Stanley Laferriere is a member of the World's Champion Volleyball Team. Cookie Jodoin and Clyde Davis are professional basketball officials.
- Jane: I don't know if this is directly concerned with sports or not, but Gerry Goodchild is the Champion Tiddlewink player of New Hampshire.
- Frank: Joann Dougan has finally accepted an offer to play on the All American Red Heads basketball team. They have been begging her for the past two years.
- Joanne: This is all very interesting, but it isn't getting the invitations written. Who's next on the list?
- Robert: Robert Manning. He's editor of the New York Times. I was over there on business last week and on my way out of the office, I saw Jean Magee who's fashion editor for the paper. They both said they'd come.
- Jane: Shall we send just one invitation to Bluejay Farm in Vermont?
- Frank: No. Henry Wallace, Donald Chase, Alfred Gill, Paul Van Scoten and Norman Cousins are all up there raising cows so we had better send five.
- Robert: Don't forget Henry Poisson; he has a herd of swine in Nebraska.
- Jane: And his friend Leon Bertrand is still in the radio and T. V. repair shop in Derry.
- Joanne: Did you see "Your Show of Shows" on television last Saturday? Sid and Imogene have finally retired and they have been replaced by John McGowan and Lorraine Goyette.
- Jane: I went to the circus when it was in town. You can't imagine whom I saw — Joyce Monkley and Ernestine Kachavos. They get top billing in the Barnum and Bailey's Circus as trapeze artists.
- Frank: I was there, too. Did you see Phillip Marcotte? He is advertised as the world's strongest man.
- Joanne: Speaking of strong men, Lillian Ratay is a professional wrestler. She appears under the name of "Gorgeous Lil."
- Robert: I was at the Metropolitan Opera with Jean Clark the other night and we heard Mario Lanza and Sylvia West sing.
- Jane: Ruth Dean accompanies them. I saw her the other day and she mentioned it.
- Joanne: Arlene Peterson and Fran Baker who have a new comedy act are on tour at present.
- Frank: I haven't seen Jean Clark since we graduated from Pinkerton Academy. What's she doing now, Bob?
- Robert: She's head bookkeeper at Sunnycrest Farm.
- Joanne: Remember when you and I used to work at J. J. Newberry, Jane? Mr. Kelly has finally retired and Joan Goggin and Nancy Gray have taken over as co-managers.
- Robert: Here's something new and different. Barbara Davis, Marian Hall and Genevieve Stannard are renting spy-glasses at Massabesic Lake.
- Frank: Two of the girls are in politics. Marilyn Bentley has been re-elected town manager and Jean-Marie Benson has been a Windham road agent for eight years.

Jane: Oh! Here's one we nearly skipped. Louise Caldwell is busy renting boats on Beaver Lake. Aren't any of the girls married, yet? How about you, Joanne, haven't you caught a man yet?

Joanne: No, I was just discharged from the Waves, but I think I'll write to the Lonely Hearts Club to see if they can help. Martha Martin is very happily married and writing a book, "Cheaper by the Two Dozen."

Robert: Arnold Buckley and Frances Lucien are President and Vice-President, of the Lonely Hearts Club and if they can't help you, no one can.

Joanne: When I was stationed in Washington, D. C., I went to see Gordon Frost. He's the head of the Atomic Energy Commission, you know. It was Saturday and Gordon wasn't at work but I did meet Paul Pillsbury, who is one of the scientists working on the H-bomb.

Frank: In your travels did you have a chance to see Pat Hayes, Joanne? The last I heard, she was Secretary of the Treasury.

Joanne: No, I didn't, but I did see Bob Rand. He and Ernest Nelson are driving Hot-Rods for the Paquin, Nelson and Davis Corporation.

Robert: Did you know that Richard Spaulding and Dorothy Parkinson are professors? Dick teaches Math at M.I.T. and Dorothy is head of the Occupational Therapy Department at U.N.H.

Jane: Here are two invitations going all the way to Hollywood. One to Joanne Preston who has her own beauty shop on Sunset Boulevard, and another one to Monica Keith. Shall I address Monica's to her home or to Walt Disney Studios?

Frank: Send it to the studios. Here's another one for California; it's addressed to Alice Bourassa, who's playing the guitar for Spike Jones.

Joanne: Do you remember Ruth Greeley? She has started a rehabilitation center on Skid Row in Chicago and Catherine Healey is working with her. I wonder if they will be coming?

Jane: Have you heard that Agnes Gates, Virginia Lumley, and Mary Anne Pellerin are perfecting a new sign language? It's almost finished, now.

Robert: Did you know Virginia Hutton is my secretary?

Jane: You must be doing well as a Natural Gas Technician, Bob. That means you have received a promotion.

Frank: I like my work as swimming and diving instructor at New York City College but here's something I'd like to try. Richard Quimby is testing non-smear lipstick for the Hazel Bishop Co. That sounds like fun.

Joanne: That was my last invitation. It went to Monique Rousseau. She's working as a French interpreter for the United Nations.

Jane: Let's ask Janice Rand to design some clothes for us for the safari.

Robert: It's getting late; I think I had better get back to work now.

Frank: I had better go, too, but let's meet again next Friday to finish planning the trip. See you soon!

So long.

Class Will

We, the Class of 1952, of Pinkerton Academy, the 134th class to graduate from the aforesaid school, located in Derry Village, State of New Hampshire, being a superior class of sound mind and body, do hereby will and bequeath to the underclassmen all the happy times we have had at the school we'll never forget.

ARTICLE 1. I, Monique Rousseau, do hereby will and bequeath my natural blonde hair to Mary Tewksbury.

ART. 2. We, Gene Matteuzzi and Gerry Goodchild, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to always have the necessary equipment for chemistry experiments to any two future chemistry students. Don't take more than you need, fellas!

ART. 3. We, Sylvia West and John McGowan, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to play comedy parts in class plays, to any underclassmen who enjoy making people laugh.

ART. 4. We, Barbara Holden, Nancy Gray, and Joan Goggin, being of sane mind do hereby will and bequeath our fiendish minds to Marilyn Cornwell.

ART. 5. We, Pat Hayes and Martha Martin, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to remain friends without an argument to Jane Griffon and Patricia Sheridan.

ART. 6. I, Lillian Ratay, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to make posters for four years and still not know how to spell Manchester to Alicia MacGregor. Learn how to spell, Ish!

ART. 7. We, Marilyn Bentley and Janice Rand, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to master the Ouija Board in Room D to Laurel Rand and Gloria Abbott. You'll learn a lot, but don't take it too seriously.

ART. 8. I, Mary Ann Pellerin, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to keep quiet to Tina Niarchos.

ART. 9. We, Dorothy Parkinson and Joann Dougan, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to skip history and not get caught to any underclassmen who can look innocent.

ART. 10. I, Robert Manning, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to be excused at twelve o'clock to any boy with a hardy appetite.

ART. 11. We, Bob Rand and Bob Nelson, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to hold jobs in the First National and drive Chevrolets to Wilbur Palmer and Pertice Gaskill.

ART. 12. I, Carol Hodgdon, do hereby will and bequeath "Jack," the girls' basketball mascot, to next year's captain, Eleanor Dumont.

ART. 13. I, Eleanor Watt, do hereby will and bequeath my loose joints to Faith Joslyn. Use them in the pantomime at camp, Faith.

ART. 14. We, Maxine Lessard and Genevieve Stannard, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to play girls' field hockey to Raymond Dolloff and Billy Lessard.

ART. 15. I, Jean Clark, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to keep out of trouble all my four years to Beverly Benway. Here's hoping you can do it, Bev.

ART. 16. I, Louise Caldwell, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to sew to Ann Cameron. I know, Ann, that you will make good use of it.

ART. 17. I, Alice Bourassa, do hereby will and bequeath my long, tiresome walk to school to Shirley Healy. It's a long walk, isn't it, Shirl?

ART. 18. We, Agnes Gates and Catherine Healy, do hereby will our ability to wander around the corridors first period and get bawled out by Mr. Conner to Phyllis Sheridan and Wilma Gates. May you girls become wary and wise from it.

ART. 19. We, Barbara Davis and Marian Hall, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to get along to anyone who can.

ART. 20. We, Joanne Preston and Jane Barker, do hereby will and bequeath our Advice to the Lovelorn Agency to Sylvia Matarozzo. We hope you break up as many romances as we did.

ART. 21. I, Arlene Putney, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to remain the shortest girl in the class to Barbara Buckley.

ART. 22. I, Virginia Lumley, do hereby will and bequeath my mad dashes to school every morning to the students from the wilds of East Derry.

ART. 23. I, Monica-Jean Keith, do hereby will and bequeath my position in the library to Priscilla Pamenter. Have patience!

ART. 24. We, Lorraine Goyette, Jean Graves, and Joanne Cournoyer, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to do acrobatics and make more noise than anyone else in Room D to someone with the same number of brain convolutions.

ART. 25. We, Donald Chase and Henry Wallace, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to skip English and go to the farm to Wilbur Palmer and Fernand Simard.

ART. 26. We, Gordon and Blair Frost, do hereby will our position as the best dressed boys in the Senior Class to Bob Morrison and Donald Patterson.

ART. 27. I, Ruth Greeley, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to defend North Londonderry to Joan Poitras and Dorothy Eaton.

ART. 28. We, Leon Bertrand and Stanley Laferriere, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to keep away from girls to anyone who is crazy enough to want to.

ART. 29. I, Jean-Marie Benson, do hereby will and bequeath my ability to drive a car to Shirley Butterfield. Good Luck, Shirley, you need it.

ART. 30. We, Wallace Mack and Paul Pillsbury, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to spill acid and break test tubes to the future officers of the Science Club.

ART. 31. We, Cookie Jodoin and Tuny Lucien, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to insult each other and remain friends to Bobby Taylor and Lois Fortier.

ART. 32. We, Ernestine Kachavos, Joyce Monkley, and Virginia Hutton, do hereby will and bequeath our corny jokes to any underclassman who can find use for them.

ART. 33. We, Frank Johnson and Dick Quimby, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to get to school on time to Barry Lannan and Don Quimby.

ART. 34. We, Clyde Davis, Buffy Harris, Arnold Buckley, and Bob Boyle, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to be the only "boy cheerleaders" at Pinkerton Academy to Jimmy Bartlett, John Tinkham, Jimmy Lyons, and Jackie Gillespie.

ART. 35. We, Ruth Dean and Jeanne Magee, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to have charge of the library first period to Carol Gallahue and Teda Gallien.

ART. 36. We, Phillip Marcotte and Lucien Paquin, do hereby will and bequeath Mr. Rohanick's "easy" chemistry tests to anyone who has the courage to take chemistry.

ART. 37. We, Fran Baker and Arlene Peterson, do hereby will and bequeath our ability to create a lasting impression of the song, Sin, to any two girls who think that they are sinful enough to do so.

ART. 38. We, Henry Poisson, Alfred Gill, and Ernest Nelson, will and bequeath our abilities to get excused from school to Dave Morrill.

ART. 39. We, the Crow Association, do hereby will and bequeath our positions to Gloria Abbott, Patricia Gallien, Andrew Mack, and Albert Page. May you fly higher and crow louder!

ART. 40. To the Trustees, we, the Class of 1952, give our best wishes.

ART. 41. We, the Class of 1952, wish to express to Mr. Hackler our gratitude for the guidance you have given us through our four years at Pinkerton Academy.

ART. 42. To the Faculty, we, the Class of 1952, wish to thank you for all the pleasant memories you have given us during our stay at Pinkerton.

ART. 43. We, the Class of 1952, leave to Mr. Conner a deep appreciation for helping us through our memorable senior year.

ART. 44. We, the Class of 1952, leave to the Junior Class all the Senior privileges and the Senior Room. Take good care of them; they are worth waiting for.

Given under our hand and seal, in the presence of each of us on this twelfth day of June, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and fifty-two.

Salutatory

What is a salutatory? Long ago when the Roman gladiators gathered in the arena prepared to face their adversaries, they saluted the spectators. Before they went to their fights or perhaps even their death, they turned to the mighty emperor and the crowds of people and thanked them for their help and interest.

Since those days the salutatory has become a means of expressing gratitude. So we, who are about to graduate, greet you as we prepare to face this changing world.

Uncertainty stands before us much the same as unknown threats hovered over the Romans. The future is clouded with communism and war, but during our twelve years of formal education, the foremost thought in the minds of our teachers and parents has been to prepare us to become better individuals and citizens. Thus with our training we are prepared to take our part in the agriculture, business, and industry of the world.

On this day, one of the most important in our lives, we wish to express our sincerest thanks to our parents, teachers, and friends for all they have done to prepare us for the future.

It is with this thought that I, on behalf of the Class of 1952, wish to welcome you to this 134th commencement of Pinkerton Academy.

DOROTHY ANN PARKINSON

Valedictory

At graduation time it is traditional to present to the graduates certain gifts as token of congratulation. As a graduate I thoroughly approve of this custom. I would like to use this opportunity to make a suggestion for the graduation present that future classes would like to be given.

The receiving of a diploma symbolizes the fact that a young person is leaving the semi-sheltered secondary school life and nearing the time when he is to be thrust into the world to make his way. Many high school graduates will enter the contentious adult world immediately following graduation.

The world that today's high school graduate enters is one of high taxes, the high cost of living, government dictatorship, selective service and general impending doom. Yet young people all over America who are graduating in 1952 are facing the situation with remarkable equanimity. They are noticing only the good things of the future, such as scientific discoveries and technological advances. With typical teen-age optimism we try to overlook the present state of national and international affairs. Perhaps it is well that we have developed this ability at an early age. Thus we may hope to avoid becoming a part of the increasingly large number of mental cases resulting from the strain of modern living.

However, although in our young lives conditions have never been substantially different, we can still hope that changes for the better will be made. The best graduation present that any young person could receive would be enough of these changes to give more opportunity for success in life. We would like the opportunity to plan for the future without having to include war in our plans. We would like to be able to work a week without spending one day and part of another working for the treasury department. We would like to be able to think of our government as an expression of the highest ideals of democracy, rather than a giant Hydra that sprouts two new bureaus for every one that is cut off.

I have spoken of these opportunities as a graduation present we would like. I realize, however, that we can not now have them given to us. We can and we must work with all the energy of youth to win them for ourselves.

For having given us goals to work for and means to win them, we thank this hallowed academy. I wish to thank Mr. Hackler and the members of the faculty for the patience and time they have devoted to showing us the right way. Only by our continued progress after graduation can we repay the debt we owe to them for their interest and help in planning our courses and our careers.

At this moment I know we all feel that no other Academy could so well combine the rare high standards with freedom of individual expression. We are convinced that no other school could be quite like Pinkerton. Although four years is but a brief moment in a lifetime, these past four years will loom large, cut of proportion to their length, in our memories. When we face trying times or difficult problems in the days ahead, we should do well to face them as if one of our Pinkerton Academy faculty members were watching to make sure of the quality of our work.

Now, on this last meeting of the Class of 1952, I wish the best of luck and success to all of my classmates. May I see you all again at our fiftieth reunion in the year 2002.

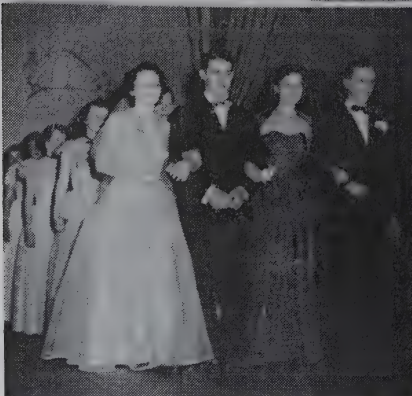

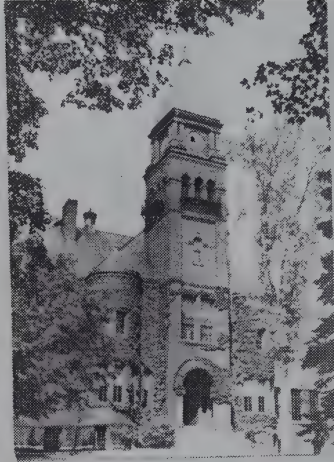

PAUL WALTER PILLSBURY

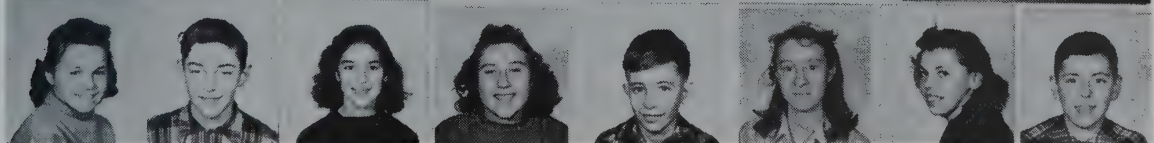

Memories

When Time who steals our Years away
Shall steal our pleasures too,
The mem'ry of the past will stay
And half our joys renew.
